

LORD CECIL IS PUSHING FIGHT TO CUT ARMS

Diplomats Fear He Will Wreck League's Pro- gram for Reduction

BY HENRY WOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent
Geneva, Sept. 19.—(UP)—Unaffected by French and Italian criticism, Lord Cecil appeared before the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission today and began his fight to produce a general limitation of land, sea and air forces, including trained reserves.

Despite the predictions emanating principally from French circles that he would wreck the League's disarmament program if he pressed the limitation of trained reserves, Lord Cecil ruthlessly opened the whole question. He urged, in addition, the acceptance of those parts of his resolution advocating the limitation of armament budgets and the establishment of an international control to enforce disarmament conventions.

Cecil declared the actual reduction of armaments was the only direct step the League could take to prevent wars.

"While it is true negotiations are now proceeding outside of the League for naval reductions," said Lord Cecil, "we must not imagine naval limitations will contribute much either towards peace or disarmament. History shows the majority of past wars were fought by the land forces."

Publicity Not Enough

Lord Cecil stated the limitation of land aerial forces was absolutely essential to the effective realization of disarmament.

Lord Cecil especially attacked the American thesis that full publicity of expenditures constituted sufficient control on the limitation of war materiel. He insisted the preparatory commission must be instructed to reopen this question and provide for an actual reduction of war materiel.

Preliminary discussion of Cecil's resolution was begun, and developed the greatest divergencies among the powers. Only Germany supported the program.

Dr. J. London, of Holland, president of the commission, opened the fight against the Cecil resolution, and was joined by Rene Massigli, of France, and Naoki Sato, of Japan.

Count Von Bernstorff, of Germany, led the support for the Cecil resolution, declaring that Germany is in full accord.

FRANCE APPREHENSIVE

Paris, Sept. 19.—(AP)—French apprehension regarding the "character of the prospective Anglo-American naval accord is increasing to such an extent as to constitute a real threat to the complete success not only of the preliminary agreement between the United States and Great Britain but of the larger issue of a general move for reduction of armament."

French fears voiced on public platforms, in the press and by authoritative circles are echoed from other parts of the continent, chiefly Geneva. From Geneva has come full-hearted approval of the trend of affairs regarding armaments, but French spokesmen intimate lesser continental powers share concern regarding developments which it is feared might be beneficial to former enemy nations of the world or war which would, by means of a far-reaching Anglo-American political entente, strengthen British political power in Europe and other parts of the world at the expense of legitimate French development as a great world power.

French observers are watching Geneva as closely as London and Washington for moves likely to work out favorably for France. One is seen in Viscount Cecil's proposal before the League of Nations that the question of trained army reserves, always a delicate point on the continent, must be ultimately considered in the general disarmament scheme.

HOOVER TELLS OF HOPES FOR NAVAL ARMS LIMITATION

President Talked To Public Over Radio Last Night

Washington, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Amid the memories which crowd the president's study in the historic east room of the White House, Herbert Hoover daily is working out his hopes for naval reduction and furtherance of world peace.

For the first time, he has let it be known that this room used as a study by his predecessors from Adams to Roosevelt, and then abandoned for five administrations—has been restored to that use.

Addressing a radio audience through a microphone in that chamber where he proclaimed the Kellogg-Briand peace policy to the world and where he is working out the naval angle of the same policy, as he views it, he expressed his belief that the current naval discussions are in keeping with the "high aspirations and high accomplishments" that have made it memorable.

"The problems of our day," he said, "today crowd for entry here. One problem has been ever constant with each succeeding president—that we should maintain and strengthen the will of the nation and other nations for peace."

The naval negotiations, he holds, are means to this end.

"Daily in this room," he related, "do I receive evidence of almost universal prayer that this negotiation shall succeed."

Giving voice to his own optimism, he said:

"Some months ago I proposed to the world that we should further reduce and limit naval arms. Today we are engaged in a most hopeful discussion with other governments leading to this end."

"These are proposals which would preserve our national defenses and yet would relieve the backs of those who toil from gigantic expenditures and the world from the hate and fear which flows from the rivalry in building war ships."

Asserting that "never have we had a president who was either a pacifist or a militarist," he recalled that "great aid" has been given by the chief executives for the last half century to "the advance of conciliation, arbitration and judicial determination for settlement of international disputes."

"These are the steps which prevent war," he held. "Lately we and other nations have pledged ourselves never to use war as an instrument of national policy. And there is another step which follows with compelling logic from these advances. That is the reduction of arms."

The president's address was broadcast last night over the Columbia chain in connection with the dedication of its new studio in New York City. It was the first public utterance in which he has mentioned the arms reduction question since the negotiations with Great Britain were undertaken.

JUDGE EDWARDS IN IMPRESSIVE TALK; 6 NEW AMERICANS

Citizenship Papers Given To Group of Applicants Today

Impressive ceremonies in the circuit court room this morning marked the naturalization of a class of six new American citizens who received their final papers from Judge Harry Edwards. The class was composed of the following:

Johanna Oesterheld, 623 Depot Ave., Dixon.

Lorenzo Venier, 224 Everett St., Dixon.

John A. Gianakopoulos, 414 Third St., Dixon.

Rev. W. W. Marshall, 410 Ottawa Ave., Dixon.

Adam Fazzi, Route 3, Dixon.

Giovanni Pileppi, Nelson.

Following the examination which was conducted by a representative of the department of immigration office in Chicago, and the admission of the applicants, Judge Harry Edwards delivered a brief but impressive talk to the newly made citizens.

"This is a proud moment in your lives and it is a happy moment for me. On this occasion you have become citizens of the greatest nation in the world, you are a proponent part of this great nation and I assure you that it is a privilege which each of you should cherish. You have achieved the highest privilege possible that of American citizenship which will bring great blessings to you."

Must Defend Flag

"To this flag you owe all. It will be your duty to fight for that flag and shed your blood should the occasion arise. It is your duty to obey the laws of this country of which you are now a part, for only the obedience to law will make for the strength of the nation. Exercise your right of citizenship by voting at our elections. Remember at all times that you are American citizens and conduct yourselves as such."

At the close of these fitting remarks several ladies representing the local post Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War and a delegation from the Women's Relief Corps presented small silk flags to the new citizens together with the pledge of allegiance and the American creed.

Several spectators were also present in the court room and viewed with interest the impressive ceremony.

Canadian Captain Says Coast Guard Shelled His Ship

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Charges that a United States coast guard cutter shelled the Canadian motorship Shawnee 26 miles of New York were made by her master, Captain John McLeod, today.

The Shawnee arrived here with shell holes in her port quarter and part of her rail carried away.

Captain McLeod declared his intention filing a formal protest with the dominion government.

He said his vessel, enroute from Bermuda in ballast, was off New York last Friday night when the United States coast guard cutter 145 came up without lights and without warning fired five shots at the Shawnee.

After the firing, Captain McLeod said, the cutter hailed him asking the identity of the ship.

The cutter then signalled for the coast guard ship Gresham to relieve the 145, Captain McLeod said. The Gresham remained with the Shawnee until about noon Saturday, when another coast guard vessel relieved her. The Shawnee increased her speed from 10 to 12 knots and outdistanced the American patrol craft.

Alleged Informer Beaten And Branded

Denver, Colo., Sept. 19.—(UP)—Casper Moriarty, 42, and Dick O'Brien, 25, were held in jail today charged with branding and beating Grant Hoberg, 25, alleged liquor informer.

Hoberg was enticed into an automobile, driven to a remote spot and branded with heated boiling wire. The letters "S. P." were burned into his flesh. The youth was jabbed with a pitchfork, and beaten with a heavy leather strap.

The scene of the attack was where officers raided a still several weeks ago. Hoberg is said to have informed the raiding party where the still could be found.

MATTOON POLICE AND SHERIFF IN JEALOUSY FEUD

Chief Should Arrest Only in City Limits, Sheriff Says

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 19.—(AP)—A dispute between Sheriff Moore of Coles county and Oscar Cutright, Mattoon Police Chief, reached a crisis today in the revoking of Cutright's commission as deputy sheriff. Chief Cutright attributed the ouster to his arresting three men and an unclad woman for disorderly conduct in Herkimer Lane, near here, last Sunday.

Sheriff Moore asserted that he recalled the commission because Cutright was without authority to make arrests outside of Mattoon.

The police officer encountered resistance in suppressing the disorderly party Sunday and with difficulty took the quartet to the city jail. All four pleaded guilty Monday to charges of disorderly conduct and paid fines of $25 and costs each. The girl said she was from Terre Haute, Ind., and the men were from Mattoon, Massachusetts and Shelbyville.

The city attorney and police committee of the city council announced their support of Chief Cutright and that they would investigate the situation which has stirred the county. The chief blamed Sheriff Moore's jealousy of his good record, but Moore replied that Cutright was using his deputy's commission improperly and making arrests outside his jurisdiction without informing the sheriff.

Ask Extradition Of Negro Wanted Here

Deputy Sheriff Fred Richardson and wife left this morning for Springfield, the former taking with him an application for extradition papers for M. Cunningham, Negro, now in jail at Cedar Rapids, Ia. Cunningham is alleged to have come to Dixon a few weeks ago with a check in the sum of $75 on the state bank of Madison, Wis. He was successful in obtaining the endorsement of a local Negro, and taking the money left the city.

Sheriff Miller was informed a few days ago that Cunningham was serving a six months jail sentence at Cedar Rapids and immediately arranged for his return to Dixon. The Negro refused to return to Dixon without extradition papers and the Lee county sheriff proceeded to procure these. In the event that the request is honored today at Springfield, Sheriff Miller will leave in the morning for Des Moines, Ia., to present his request to the governor of Iowa and on his return stop at Cedar Rapids for his prisoner.

PRESIDENT BROWN SHOE COMPANY IN TALK ON TARIFF

Says His Company is Will- ing To Have Free Shoes To Get Hides

St. Louis, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Their views on tariff legislation in the present congress were expressed last night by executives of some of the St. Louis corporations whose income tax returns have been requested to the treasury department by democrats of the senate finance committee for use in the tariff debate.

John A. Bush, president of the Brown Shoe Company, Inc., declared that his company and other central states manufacturers are opposed to the levying of a duty on hides and shoes, both of which now are on the free list. The proposed levies of an ad valorem duty of 10 per cent on hides and 20 per cent on shoes would, in the opinion of Bush, work an added burden on the American farmer.

"Some of the eastern shoe manufacturers," Bush said, "desire a tariff on shoes, but we are willing to take free shoes in order to get free hides. A tariff on hides would raise the price of shoes. This means the man who produces hides in America would have to pay more for his shoes and would not benefit sufficiently from an increase in the price of hides to make up the difference."

Bush said that while the larger eastern manufacturers were in agreement with the middle western manufacturers that the best interests would be served by accepting shoes on the free list. Some of the smaller eastern concerns were demanding a tariff because they feared an influx of women's footwear from Czechoslovakia would sell at a price the American manufacturer could not compete with.

Woodson K. Woods, vice president of Ralston Purina Company said his company was interested in defeating a proposed increase in the duty on scrap molasses used in manufacturing a livestock feed. It is imported from Cuba. He said the existing rate is fair.

Dr. F. W. Russe, secretary of the Mallinckrodt chemical works, said the chemical manufacturers favored higher schedules on the importation of articles which cannot be manufactured with profit in America in competition with Germany and other chemists. He declined to be specific as to the chemicals on which the manufacturers desire a higher duty.

TWO MEN TAKEN FOR RIDE; MAY HAVE BEEN SHOT

Police Expect To Find Bodies of 2 "Squawking Stool Pigeons"

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Double kidnapping that boded double murder started the dirty stew of Chicago gang outlaws boiling again to day.

Two men, driving on South Parkway near 42nd street last night, were abducted by four men, "squawking" and "stool pigeons" were epithets the abductors used as they yanked their victims from a sedan and loaded them into a touring car.

The automobile drove away before a cab driver, who witnessed the kidnapping, could notify police. There was little doubt in the mind of Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege that the two men had been "taken for a ride" and killed.

The cab driver, who begged police to withhold his name, drew along side the two cars while the abduction was going on. He thought there had been an accident, and went to offer assistance. He said the driver of the abductor's car had a saved-off shotgun across his knee.

"He told me to get out, or I'd get it, too," the cab driver said.

He overheard one of the kidnappers address the men in the sedan, saying: "Come out of there, you stool pigeons. You won't squawk any more." As the first man was yanked from the sedan, one of the kidnappers slugged him over the head with a pistol butt. Both victims were pushed into the waiting touring car which sped away.

NO. CAROLINA MOB CHASES UNIONISTS ON ALL NIGHT RIDE

Fifty Auto Loads of Anti- Unionists Terrorize Countryside

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 19.—(UP)—Two organizers of the National Textile Workers' union, sought by a mob of anti-unionists at Blacksburg, S. C., last night, arrived today after a wild all night ride.

Organizers, Cortew and Pfeiffer who were to address a strikers' rally in Blacksburg, said they eluded a mob in automobiles by speeding over lonely side roads. Chief of Police A. J. Bryant of Blacksburg had told the United Press that approximately 50 automobiles loaded with Gastonia, N. C. citizens were following the speakers.

The mobsmen, cheated of their two victims, returned to Bessemer City and terrorized that small community until day break. It was reported. The incident occurred two days after the dramatic funeral of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, young widow and a textile striker, who was shot to death while enroute to a workers' rally in South Gastonia.

A feeling of anxiety concerning the next move in the campaign of terrorism that has existed in the Piedmont section was felt by union officials and workers here today. Some hurriedly moved into different hotels. None answered the telephone in their rooms and offices.

Rogers Baldwin, a director of the American Civil Liberties Union, who said "we are going to sock everyone we can pin anything on," departed for Marion, N. C., to confer with American Federation of Labor officials who conducted a strike there recently.

Ben Wells, a British subject, who was beaten by a mob from Gastonia 10 days ago, a nervous night and announced he would leave in a day or two for Washington to place his troubles before Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador.

Cleo Tessier, 24-year-old organizer, who was beaten by three men in South Carolina yesterday, and who came here to have his injuries treated, was reported recovering today. He is under threat of death if he returns to Kings Mountain, his home, and is undecided what he will do.

Washington, Sept. 19.—(UP)—U. S. District Attorney George Q. SENATE TRIES TO SPEED UP TARIFF BILL

Longer Daily Sessions Next Week Part of Plan of Action

BY PAUL R. MALLON

United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Sept. 19.—(UP)—Senate Republicans moved today to hasten action on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in the hope of passing it before Congress reconvenes in regular session next December.

At a conference attended by 37 of the 55 Republicans in the Senate it was decided to start daily sessions next week at 11:00 A. M., rather than noon, the present meeting hour. All Republicans were urged to be in their seats promptly in order to avoid delays in obtaining the necessary quorum.

Although the conference had been expected to canvass the strength of those favoring the tariff bill in its present form, nothing was said about divisions within the party which are worrying administration leaders. The presence of three progressives who have shown sympathy toward the Democratic opposition, it was felt, may have played a part in failure of the conference to discuss factional differences.

A suggestion that Republicans refrain from speaking at length on the bill, in order to save time and allow the Democrats to talk themselves out was rejected on the ground that each Senator must be left to determine for himself whether he is to speak and how long.

Shortly before the general conference the newly formed "Lumber Bloc" held a meeting in the office of Senator Johnson, Republican, Calif., to decide what schedules they will support as a unit. The bloc proposes to fight for increases in the lumber, shingle and manganese schedules but the details of its program have not been worked out.

Nothing definite was accomplished today but further meetings are to be held. Those who conferred with Johnson were Senators Oddie of Nevada, Stewer of Oregon, Thomas of Idaho and Jones of Washington, all Republicans. All but Johnson later attended the Republican conference. It is understood that Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, has been invited to join the northwestern bloc but so far has refused. The group, if effectively united, may be able to win the increases it wants as so large a number of votes cannot be sacrificed by the administration majority.

INLAND WATERWAY SUBJECT OF MEET IN DIXON TONIGHT

Three Congressmen In Party Inspecting Rock River Valley

Residents of Dixon and vicinity will assemble this evening at the Brinton Memorial Masonic temple in one of the largest gatherings held in months, to welcome Congressman Hull of Peoria and members of his party who will spend the evening in Dixon in the interests of opening Rock river to Janesville as a navigable stream.

The Peoria congressman ranking member of the congressional committee on deep waterways and a nationally recognized authority on the subject, was accompanied on his tour of inspection of Rock river by Congressman Win. R. Johnson of Freeport and Congressman John Buckbee of Rockford, together with many other notables. They were met at Sterling, where a meeting was held at noon, and made the trip to Dixon by boat, a large delegation from Dixon attending the Sterling meeting.

It was expected that about 300 would be in attendance at this evening's meeting and representative delegations from throughout northern Illinois, had made reservation for this evening's meeting at which time Congressman Hull will be the principal speaker. "The meeting is being preceded by a public banquet at 6:30."

Peoria Votes Bonds For River Terminal

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Peoria yesterday took steps to insure its future as a shipping center on the proposed Lakes-to-Gulf waterway.

By a vote of nearly two to one a proposition to build a $400,000 river terminal was approved in a special election. The returns showed 5,994, for and 3,068 against the proposal.

United States Congressman William E. Hull, staunch waterway proponent, asserted that success of the terminal would not be contingent upon completion of the route from Chicago to St. Louis.

"Peoria can be used as a distribution center for freight shipped by water through the Mississippi and Illinois rivers," he said.

CUT CORNER—FINED.

Charles DeLang of Gary, Ind., driving to his studies at Grinnell college cut the corner at Everett street and Galena avenue this morning and then attempted to race west on the Lincoln Highway with Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber. He was halted about a mile west of the city and brought back to the police station where he paid a fine of $10 and costs on a charge of speeding preferred before Justice J. O. Shaulls.

CRASH ON NORTH SIDE.

Two cars were badly wrecked and their occupants miraculously escaped being seriously injured last evening in a crash at the intersection of Brinton avenue and Morgan streets. John James, local Negro, was arrested following the crash and taken to the police station by Officers Brantner and Bohmstedt. James was driving an old model Ford sedan with license plates issued to a Rockford car. He was assessed a fine of $10 and costs by Justice J. O. Shaulls on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with fictitious license plates.

James was driving east on Morgan street when another car belonging to George Bain of the Dixon state hospital, coming south on Brinton avenue, crashed. The James car was hurled against a tree which prevented it from being turned completely over. None of the occupants were injured aside from a bad shaking up and minor bruises. Both cars had to be hauled to local garages for repairs.

High Pressure Ad Salesmen Taken In Charge by Sheriff

J. W. Conner and Ray Woods, claiming to be advertising solicitors for "1313" official Chicago police department magazine, have been turned over to Deputy Sheriff Fritz Dolder of Sycamore by Sheriff Ward Miller, who caused their arrest here Tuesday morning. The pair were engaged in soliciting $35 ads from drivers of trucks hauling to the Chicago stock yards and not members of a union of drivers in the Windy City.

They were said to have applied "high pressure" salesmanship methods in Waterman and DeKalb during their brief stay in this county, and threatened some truck owners that unless they contributed $35 ads to the official Chicago police publication, that their trucks might find their way into the middle of Lake Michigan or some other deep water. Charges of extortion were preferred against both of the solicitors who were launching a campaign for advertisements among truck owners and drivers of the vicinity of Dixon when taken in custody at the request of the DeKalb county authorities.

Believe Girls Who Aided Waggoner In Fraud are Innocent

New York, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The wife and son of Charles D. Waggoner, indicted president of the bank of Telluride, Colo., Frances Carlson, 18-year-old clerk in the bank, and Harry D. Miller, the banker's barber, were taken today before the federal grand jury investigating how Waggoner fraudulently obtained $500,000 credit through six New York banks.

Mrs. Marybelle Waggoner and her son, Charles, Jr., and the other witnesses were questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Emanuel G. Kleid.

They entered the grand jury room after Amelia Jones, youthful niece of the banker, had told federal investigators that she and Miss Carlson unwittingly had sent the six coded telegrams which enabled the banker to obtain the credit. Miss Margaret Jones, sister of Amelia, appeared before the grand jury with her sister yesterday. United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said he believed the sisters and Miss Carlson innocent of any wrongdoing.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN SHEEP
The red deer loves the chaparral. The hawk the windrocked pine. The ouzel haunts the rills that race. The canyon's steep incline; But the wild sheep from the battered rocks. Sure foot and fleet of limb. Gets up to see the stars go by Along the mountain-rim.

For him the sky-built battlements. For him the cliff and scar. For him the deep-walled chasms. Where the roaring rivers are. The gentian-flowered meadow-lands. The tamarack slope and crest. Above the eagle's screaming brood. Above the wild wolf's quest.

When in the riot of the storms. The snow-flowers blossom fair. The cattle get them to the plain. The howlers to the lair. The shepherd tends his foolish flocks. Along the mountain's hem; But free and far the wild sheep are. And God doth shepherd them.

Buck-Hoffman Wedding of Interest

Monday morning, thirty-five miles from Waterloo, Iowa, a wedding occurred of interest to Franklin Grove residents.

In the "Little Brown Church" made famous by that religious song, "The Church in the Wildwood," John S. Buck and Miss Zella Hoffman were wedded and are enjoying their honeymoon in the lake region.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Buck of Franklin Grove. He was a student and a graduate from Franklin high, later attending college at Mt. Morris. His jolly nature made all of his friends like him. He is employed in Mt. Morris as a city mail carrier. Mrs. Buck formerly resided in Libertyville, Ia., but has been a teacher in the Oregon schools several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck will make Mt. Morris their home.

Stamboul Rich Must Aid Poor Neighbors

STAMBOUL, Turkey — (AP) — The old question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" has just been answered in the affirmative by the prefecture of Stamboul, the answer taking the form of a drastic law.

Under this law every well-to-do family in each of the many districts into which the city is divided, must see to it that at least one pauperized family living in the same district does not starve or suffer from exposure.

Government inspectors are drawing up lists determining those families which are well-to-do, and those which are paupers. The former may use what method they choose for protecting the latter, either by supplying food from their own kitchens, by paying money allowances, or by procuring work for the able-bodied members of the pauper family.

As there are not enough wealthy families to equal the number of guardian angels needed for the thousands of impoverished in Stamboul, the government inspectors will delegate to the wealthy individuals only the worst cases. The Turkish Red Crescent Society, the equivalent of the Red Cross, will attempt to care for the others.

POET'S CORNER

A VISION
I see a beautiful river,
Like a silver ribbon unrolled;
On its banks is a shining harvest
Ripened and yellow as gold.

And voyagers float on the current,
Striving each to be first in the race,
And they heed not the rich abundance
Left thus on the banks to waste.

They stop their ears to the voices
Calling clear from the burdened land;
Shouting: "Come to the fields and labor,
There is work for every hand."

But onward, with joy and laughter,
In their happiness float along
While the rippling waters answer
To the music of their song.

They say: "We were made for the sunshine,
And to follow in pleasure's train;

We scorn the toil of the harvest,
We hunger not for the grain."

And the precious seed they gather
In the season of hope and youth
Shall live in its sweetest fullness
In the blessed bread of truth.

The bread of the perishing body,
For the heart that is fainting and chilled.

The food for the soul of the mourner
Of which all can eat and be filled.
Mrs. Charles Florabelle Throop,
Grand De Tour, Illinois.

Window Slashing Epidemic Puzzles London Policemen

London, Sept. 18—(UP)—The first arrest in the window-smashing mystery was made today when police detained a man, aged about 33, in Regent Street, the center of the west end theatrical district.

The man was arrested about dawn and arraigned in Marylebone police court charged with loitering in the intention of committing a felony, and with the possession of housebreaking instruments, including a glass-cutter. He was remanded a week for medical examination after refusing to give his name or other identification.

A detective testified the accused said he was suffering from loss of memory.

Since the window-slashing started last Wednesday, nearly 2000 windows in London and suburbs have been mutilated. Four hundred cases occurred in the last 24 hours. A thousand detectives are working on the case.

WHAT WAGES WILL BUY.

The United States is famous as a country of high wages. Nowhere in the world do the services of even the ordinary worker command as high a sum of money as they do here. To the underpaid laborer of Europe the country looks like an El Dorado—and we have to pass stiff immigration laws to keep from being swamped by a flood of job-hunters.

Yet there is another side to the picture. If you can get a lot of money for your services here, you can also get a lot of service for your money. This country is, after all, like every other—for an amazingly small sum you can buy the very best that a man has to give, in generous measure.

About a year ago there was published a book called "On the Bottom," written by Commander Edward Ellsberg of the U. S. Navy. It illustrates this point perfectly.

Commander Ellsberg was in charge of the navy's effort to raise the sunken submarine S-51, which sank off Block Island a few years ago after being rammed by a steamer. His book is the story of that job; and it tells a tale of heroism and endurance that is almost incredible.

Under him there were approximately a score of divers—navy enlisted men.

These men were drawing the regular navy rate of pay—good pay, as military service goes, but not comparable to the earnings, say, of a first-rate carpenter or mechanic in civil life. They were all volunteers for the jobs they held; the navy can't order any man below the surface against his will.

Day after day, for many weeks, these men went about the most perilous job you can imagine. Their work took them 140 feet below the surface of the water. They crawled into the sunken sub, through narrow hatches, trailing their life lines past machinery that could so easily entangle them and trap them forever; they lay on their backs an hour at a time, to burrow through the muck of the bottom beneath the sub's hull; they dared death in its most horrible form imaginable, time after time, cheerfully and without complaint—and all for a scant three or four dollars a day!

If you want to strengthen your faith in the race, read that book. And, as you read it, reflect on this: that while the story told by Commander Ellsberg is an extreme one, it only typifies the sort of thing that happens every day in the year, in every city and town in the country.

What does an employer get when he hires a man? The mere performance of a job? Not at all. He gets his life. Uncounted millions of men are giving everything they have to jobs that yield them a bare living—giving it simply because there is something in the human heart that makes for long endurance, great bravery and unprotesting sacrifice.

The sailors who went down to the S-51 gave more than most. Yet they are only symbols of the great average. Like their fellow citizens ashore, they were doing the jobs they knew best for a few dollars a day—and putting into the doing all the strength and courage that God gave them.

A CARELESS NATION.

America evidently still needs a lengthy course in safety education before it can handle a major holiday properly.

Over the Labor Day week-end, 205 people were killed by accidents of various kinds.

Some of these mishaps came in auto traffic. Others were due to fires, explosions, airplane crashes and the like. Drowning claimed, as usual, a number of lives.

It's too late to do anything about it, of course. But the thing to be remembered is the fact that nearly every one of these 205 deaths was caused by carelessness—carelessness on the part of the victim or on the part of someone else.

A nation that sacrifices 205 lives to carelessness when it makes a holiday is almost too careless to be trusted with holidays.

The dance hall is youth's greatest peril, says the United States Children's Bureau. Maybe the government ought to recall Mabel Walker Willebrandt to regulate it.

A writer urges that farmers give up automobile as an economy measure. But how would they ever get to town to buy their butter and eggs?

Grover Whalen, New York's police boss, has been very successful in combating crime, according to the annual report of Grover Whalen.

George Bernard Shaw says he will write a radio playlet or $3,000,000,000. If he couldn't write one better than one of those we've heard recently, his price is about $6,000,000,000 too much.

Ninety per cent of the people in the world get what they deserve, declares a novelist. Surely more than 10 per cent of us are married!

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Up in the air the eagle sailed, and Scouty cried, "Oh, look! We've failed in rescuing poor Clowny. The big bird will hurt him, sure. It's queer that Clowny doesn't fuss. An eagle's rather dangerous. Your chance of getting free from one is always rather poor."

"He's clutching Clowny mighty tight. I fear that he'll fly out of sight and take his victim with him. Then we won't know where they are. Say, boys, if such a thing turns out, I'm here to very loudly shout that I will search for Clowny both real near and very far."

"Course in the meantime Clowny still was getting quite a scarey, scarey thrill. The eagle that had pulled him from the chimney looked real mad. Thought Clowny, if he takes me to his nest, there's nothing I can do. Oh, why did this thing happen? I'm a sad, unlucky lad."

The eagle then said, "Hey there, boy. Why don't you smile and show some joy? I saved you from that chimney where you were so tightly stuck. If I'd not come along I'll bet my feathers that you'd be there yet. Instead of having sorrow you have had some real good luck."

"Yell to your friends far down below and tell them I will let you go as soon as they have spread a net so you can safely fall. That's fine," said Clowny. "You can bet that they will find some sort of net."

And then the others, on the ground, heard Clowny loudly call, "Hey, hold a net for me," he cried. "So I can fall and land inside. If I hit on the ground it'll be a mighty flop." The net was then held good and tight and everything seemed quite all right. The eagle soared above the net and let poor Clowny drop.

(The Tynmites get another big surprise in the next story.)

GARFIELD'S DEATH

Sept. 19 is a date connected with the deaths of the three United States presidents who were assassinated.

President Lincoln's body was interred in the memorial tomb at Springfield, Ill., on Sept. 19, 1871. Lincoln was the first president assassinated. He was shot on April 14, 1865, by the fanatic actor, John Wilkes Booth, as he sat in a Washington theater.

On Sept. 19, 1881, President Garfield died at Elberon, N. J., victim of an assassin's bullet. While standing in the railway station at Washington on July 2, Garfield was shot by Charles J. Guiteau, who later was hanged.

Last services over the remains of President McKinley were held at Canton, O., on Sept. 19, 1901. While attending the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo on Sept. 6, McKinley was shot by Czolgosz.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A badly mutilated body found along the Burlington railway right of way near here today was believed to be that of James M. Layden of Aurora.

He apparently had been riding the rails of a fast west bound passenger train and lost his hold. As the body went under the wheels an air-brake broke setting the brakes and stopping the train. When the crew investigated they found the body.

A membership card issued to Layden by the International Builders and Hod Carriers Union, local 149, of Aurora, was found in a pocket.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

All his transgressions that he hath committed, they shall not be mentioned unto him: in his righteousness Ezekiel 19:22.

"I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only another way of saying, "I will not forgive." A forgiveness ought to be like a canceled note, torn in two and burned up, so that it never can be shown against the man.—Beecher.

Driver Of Stolen Car Asks Sheriff To Give Him Lift

Clinton, Ill., Sept. 18.—(AP)—"Give us a lift, will you, fella?" asked Loren Dash, Decatur, as an auto whizzed up to him.

"Sure," said Sheriff Charles McNutt, and Dash hopped in. Dash learned the identity of his benefactor enroute to the county jail here. McNutt had recognized him as fitting the description of a man wanted at Decatur on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Dash, according to McNutt, was stranded in a ditch where he had driven the alleged stolen car, said to belong to Lee Moyer, Decatur, when he asked the sheriff for the "lift." Later at the county jail according to McNutt, Dash confessed the theft and said he was on his way to Decatur to answer the stolen car charge.

TWO WAY RADIO IS TO MAKE FLYING A GREAT DEAL SAFER

Pilot Will Be In Direct Communication With Ground Stations

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 18.—(UP)—Direct communication at all times between planes and ground stations which will enable guidance of air traffic through central terminals on the ground, will be completed in two years, H. E. Young, general commercial engineer of Western Electric Co., who is attending the first national air traffic conference of commercial aviation leaders here, told the United Press.

This safety device will be available to the itinerant and sport flyer as well as the pilot of the air transport plane, Young asserted. It is but another step toward making flying an easy matter.

Two way communication systems will be standard equipment on all aircraft, he said. This equipment will cost less than $1000 and will make flying controllable from the ground at all times.

The use of radio is now being taught by a few flying schools. Eventually, Young predicted, it will be a regular part of all flying courses.

Gets Two Services.

The flyer will receive two services. First through a long wave hookup he will be able to pick up weather reports from government stations and will be guided on his course by Department of Commerce radio beacons. On a short wave length he will be able to get in touch with ground stations at airports for any other information.

Development of this system for transport flying is rapidly nearing completion. Many transport lines have already equipped their planes with two way systems.

Young pointed out that a single way communication system does not answer the problem of radio for aviation purposes. The flyer must be able to acknowledge messages and ask for information while in flight.

Young's picture of the future provided for airports equipped with radio broadcasting and receiving stations and major stations to be located every 200 or 300 miles.

Daily Health Talk

By W. C. FOWLER, M. D.

Health Officer

District of Columbia

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Of 4701 kindergarten and first-grade pupils examined by school medical inspectors in the District of Columbia public schools during the year 1927-8, 91.1 per cent were found to have physical defects, with an average of 2.3 defects per pupil.

The outstanding defects were: teeth 61.0 per cent; tonsils 45.6; enlarged glands 25.1; nutrition 23.3; defective nasal breathing 16.5; vision 10.8; anemia 9.9; nasal catarrh 6.8; skin 4.7; orthopedic 3.9; nervous system 3.8; pulmonary 3.5; speech 2.5; hearing 1.9; caries 1.9; crossed eyes 1.0; hernia .9; and discharging ear .5.

It is evident from the above that the majority of children entering school are already seriously handicapped by physical defects urgently in need of correction and that they are preventable.

The examination of pupils in the elementary schools discloses that the defects develop and continue, and that additional ones are acquired many of them unknown to the parents.

Failure to detect and to correct defects engenders heavy penalties. For instance, slight dental caries rapidly progress to complete destruction and loss, or to conditions potentially capable of far-reaching extension of disease. Defective hearing and vision may be progressive and may in addition exert an unfavorable influence upon the nervous system and general health. Infected tonsils may be a source of extension of disease to ears, heart, kidneys, central nervous system and elsewhere.

Since the majority of parents are not specially trained in child guidance, child hygiene, dietetics, and in the diagnosis and treatment of disease, arrangements should be made by them with the family physician and dentist to make periodic physical examinations of their children.

The fact must be realized that the defects of teeth, eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart, intestinal tract, nervous system and other organs do frequently and constantly occur among children from birth, and need expert attention at the earliest possible moment.

A semi-annual physical examination beginning in infancy will prevent many handicaps in growth and development, and detect and correct defects at a period when they are more easily eradicated and cause less serious damage.

NAME VAMPIRE DRIVER

Tilden, Ill., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A coroner's jury has named Ben Cantrill, arrested at Coulterville, as the driver of an automobile that struck and killed Ardel S. Paul, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Paul, on highway 152 near Tilden Sunday night. The boy was riding a bicycle. The driver of the car that killed him did not stop.

An open verdict was first returned by a coroner's jury in charge of Coroner C. A. Jackson, but after Cantrill's arrest the jury was re-assembled and ordered Cantrill held for the grand jury as the death car driver.

TEN MILLIONS IN FIRE DAMAGES ON THE WEST COAST

150,000 Acres of Timber
Land Laid Waste; Lives and Property Gone

BY PERCY C. RICHARDS
United Press Staff Correspondent
San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 19.—(UP)—As the smoke cleared away from the forest fire situation on the Pacific coast today, a conservative survey placed the damage at more than $10,000,000 and the territory blackened by the many fires at nearly 150,000 acres.

A miniature cloudburst put an end to the trail of destruction caused by disastrous fires in Ventura and San Diego counties, of southern California. More than 65,000 acres were burned over, causing approximately $5,000,000 damage in the worst fires in 15 years of the counties' experience.

The fire in Ventura county took one life, that of Charles Deen, firefighter, and destroyed 100 oil derricks, besides razing many homes, ranch buildings and killing livestock. The San Diego county fire destroyed 10 homes and valuable stands of timber.

The situation in northern California, particularly in Humboldt county, was well under control. Oregon gradually was getting back to normal, although a pall of smoke prevented forest rangers from spotting new outbreaks.

Citizens of Stevenson, Wash., observed with an intense feeling of relief a change in the wind, which saved the city from destruction by three fires.

The only fire of serious proportions engaging the attention of firefighters last night and early today was that near Woodside, Calif. A fire threatening several valuable estates near there as flames swept through heavily wooded sections of the La Honda canyon.

Oregon and Washington reported several new outbreaks, all of them small but needing attention with humidity still low. Favorable weather conditions aided the crews fighting fires in southern Oregon, so that hope is felt that these conflagrations will be brought under control within the next 24 hours.

FROM BAD TO WORSE

ling's refusal to concede shot putts to his opponents. An after-dinner speaker referred to the "Great Northwest, where men are men and golfers concede no putts."

Nevertheless the practice of too much generosity on the greens has been consistently frowned upon by the United States Golf Association. The main idea is to get the ball in the cup. Putts of less than a foot have been missed many a number of times, simple though they may look. It may look sportsmanlike to knock away an opponent's ball close to the hole, but it's also part of the game to get 'em down.

New ideas have lots of room to grow along the Pacific Slope. At Portland's ball park they cling to such ancient customs as showering the home team's home-run hitter with silver money and ringing a gong to toll off the number of runs after a home club rally.

50 DEGREES
is more than the mark
on a thermometer

Too many people 50 degrees means a mark on a thermometer, but to those who know, it is a blazing signal. At that temperature stands the big dividing line between correct and incorrect refrigeration of food.

A degree or two above fifty and bacteria multiply with speed... foods become contaminated, unsafe to eat. A degree or two below fifty... bacterial growth is checked, foods remain safely fresh.

The General Electric Refrigerator always automatically maintains a temperature several degrees below fifty... without any regulating or attention. It makes all the ice cubes you want, never needs oiling, has an accessible freezing regulator.

The cabinet of the General Electric is all steel, strong, warp-proof and very easy to clean. All the mechanism is in an hermetically sealed steel casing, dust-proof and mounted on top of the cabinet. Come in today and investigate.

There are now more than 300,000 homes enjoying the convenience, economy and protection of General Electric Refrigerators—and not one owner has ever had to spend a single dollar for repairs or service.

We endorse the National Food Preservation Program. 50° is the safety point for perishable foods.

LOST 32 POUNDS;

Grateful Lady Relates Her
Marvelous Experience with New Medicine.

MRS. M. L. BATES.

"Three years ago I was bothered with stomach trouble," said Mrs. M. L. Bates, 502 Fisher street, Peoria, Ill. "Indigestion followed every meal, however light. I became faint and dizzy, highly nervous and constipated, which filled my system with poisons. Medicine after medicine I tried, and always with one result—disappointment. I lost 32 pounds in weight and became greatly worried."

"I heard and read so much about Konjola that I felt it was worth a fair trial. Three bottles restored my digestion, calmed my nerves and relieved constipation. Now I feel like another person, and when I think how miserable I was three weeks ago I can scarcely believe that there can be such an astounding medicine as Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Dixon at FORD HOPKINS DRUG STORE, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Corn growing in northern Illinois will be safe from frost after Sept. 30, and in the central and southern divisions Oct. 15, the weather bureau crop bulletin said today.

It follows:
"The rainfall was light to heavy the south, the extreme west and parts of the northern areas being well watered. It is still too dry in many parts for plowing. Special inquiries as to the date the bulk of the corn crop will be safe brought much variation in replies, but in general the dates are: northern division Sept. 20 to 30; central and southern divisions, Oct. 1 to 15.

Hassell To Delay
Atlantic Hop 'till
Early Next Spring

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 18.—(UP)—Definite word that Bert R. J. Hassell's projected Chicago-to-Copenhagen flight, originally scheduled for last month, will be postponed until next spring, was received here today.

Test flights of Russell's twin-motored amphibian "Miss Great Lakes" in which he, with two companions plan to make the trip over the northern route, have not been completed.

Approach of the long Arctic winter which will increase flying hazards in the far north and the necessity for further testing and checking navigation instruments, both contributed to the decision for delaying the flight until next year, Hassell said.

If flight tests are completed in time Hassell will pilot the proposed trans-Atlantic plane in the national tour which starts Oct. 5.

CUBS CALM WHEN GLAD TIDINGS OF VICTORY ARRIVED

Question Now Is How To Wanquish Connie Mack's Pitchers

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The 1926 champions of the National League, Chicago's Cubs, their collective blood pressure undisturbed by the clinching of the pennant, today faced the business of going through the motions of 11 ball games, before engaging the Athletics in the battle for world title acclaim.

Although no championship has come to Chicago since 1919, and none to the Cubs since 1918, almost no excitement accompanied actual triumph of the team assembled by William Wrigley, Jr., and maneuvered to the title by Joseph V. McCarthy. Virtually "in" for two weeks, the Cubs had only to wait for the law of averages to go to work for them, and finally missed the thrill of making the deciding gesture themselves when Boston administered the coup de grace to Pirate hopes in the first game of yesterday's double header.

Only a half-hearted cheer greeted the news when the Boston victory over Pittsburgh was posted at Wrigley Field where about 7,500 fans sat shivering as the New York Giants defeated the champions, 7 to 1.

McCarthy, Wrigley and President William L. Veeck were smiling happily.

For McCarthy it was his first championship as a major league manager, earned after four years of effort.

For Wrigley the title was his first as the owner of a major league club, but his imagination did not stop work.

"I started out to get a team that would win a pennant," he said. "Well, the effort has been successful. But I am going to have a pennant every year, if I can—and after that, I want an elastic ball park where everyone can get in for a world series."

The Cubs' rise to the championship dates from July 13 when Hal Carlson held the Giants to four hits. The Cubs were four games behind the Pirates but the climb had started. After taking a double-header from Brooklyn July 19 Chicago moved into first place, but slipped back the next day when Dazzy Vance overcame McCarthy's crew.

They spent a day returning to Chicago, during which Pittsburgh won another game and went into a one and one-half game lead.

On the afternoon of July 23 Root defeated the Giants and Pittsburgh lost to Brooklyn. The next day produced the same set of results and the Cubs went back to the peak, where they remained, accumulating a lead of 14½ games on two occasions.

Sagging of the pitching staff during the last week has caused real concern, but McCarthy said he would let the hurlers take it easy to be certain of plenty of rest before matching power and wits with Connie Mack and the Athletics, starting October 8.

THE SCOREBOARD

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
By defeating the Robins at Wrigley Field last Sunday, the Cubs reached a point where one more victory would give them the National League pennant beyond the last mathematical doubt. The energetic Bruns are still sniping here and there in search of the victory, but they nevertheless have become champions, almost without knowing it. The coronet was clamped upon the brow of Joseph C. McCarthy just before the game-time in Chicago yesterday when the Braves tossed the Pirates by 5 to 4 at Forbes Field in the first half of a double-header.

The new champions of the elder major circuit were allowed to enter their game against the Giants without the knowledge that the Braves had ended the struggle for them. Otherwise they might have done better against the Giants, who opened the series with a 7 to 3 triumph behind Carl Hubbell's fine pitching.

The clan McGraw pounded Sherif Fred Blake and Art Nehf with the same vigor that has marked many recent assaults upon the peaceable young men who earn their money serving them up for Joe McCarthy. If these unprovoked outrages continue, experts and in-experts alike will have to place some credence in Mr. McCarthy's plea that his pitching defense consists of so many paper hoops.

Guy Bush, it is true, has been hitting the bumps; but so has Bob Grove. With more than two weeks to get ready for the ordeal, the rival pitching corps may be depended upon to make base hits bean on and after October 8. Many "wrecked" hurling staff in the past has suddenly re-assembled itself upon reaching the world series, with the accent of important money heavy in the air.

Presuming that the Cubs' twelfth pennant long had been taken for granted—Chicago fans took it—the most interesting development at Wrigley Field yesterday was Rogers Hornsby's feat in scoring all three of the Bruin runs and so lifting his total to 146, to beyond the National League record set by Kiki Cuyler in Pittsburgh in 1925.

After Kremer and Sweetonic had dropped the pennant-deciding first game to the Braves at Pittsburgh. The Pirates came back behind Henry Meine to take the night cap by 5 to 1.

Jim Frey, Nashville recruit, gave the Phillies 13 hits in his Cincinnati debut, but won his game by 9 to 5. The contest was notable for the fielding performance of Horace Ford, Cincinnati shortstop, who cut in with eleven put-outs and three assists, he fell short of the major league mark of nineteen chances accepted by a shortstop, but equalled the put out mark established by William Fuller of Andy Freedman's Giants in 1895. Danny Richardson of Washington made the mark for total chances accepted in 1892.

Under the pounding of Yankee home run bats, the Indians just escaped from New York with their lives yesterday. All visions of second money vanished from their minds. Led appropriately enough by the home run twins, Ruth and Gehrig, who got two apiece, the Yanks bombarded the Indians out of two games by 9 to 7 and 12 to 2. Tony Lazzeri added a circuit blow for good measure, and the Sewell brother performed for Cleveland.

Ruth ran his total to forty-six, by far the highest in either circuit, and Gehrig mounted to thirty-four, second best in the American League. The least said about the pitching in the first game the better, but there was nothing wrong with Roy Sherid in the nightcap. Wesley Ferrell in this contest slumped far below his usual form.

The Browns batted Bob Grove from the box to win the opener from the Athletics by 6 to 2, but George Earnshaw pitched a steady game in the nightcap to triumph by 4 to 3. His twenty-second victory. No other pitcher in the major leagues can boast so many. Earnshaw allowed only one earned run, two markers in the eighth being scored on that rare spectacle, a passed ball by Miekie Cochrane. These two tied it up, but the A's pulled out the decision for Earnshaw with a single run in the home half.

Washington dislodged Detroit from fifth place by a margin of one and one-half games through a double victory over the Bengals by scores of 2 to 0 and 1 to 0. The Messrs. Hadley and Brown performed for the Senators, opposing Earl Whitehill and Elton Hossett, respectively. Hossett, the $60,000 southpaw recruit, said to have been purchased by Detroit from Montreal at a fire sale rate of something like $40,000, showed himself every inch a pitcher in his major league debut, even in defeat.

Chicago and Boston, in the American League, and Brooklyn and St. Louis in the National, had no games scheduled.

Hunting Season On For Coaches Of Big Ten Football Squads

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The hunting season in the Big Ten conference is on in full earnest.

Every football coach in the organization is on a hunt for anything that will improve his team, but all of them are hunting for something in particular.

At Iowa, Burt Ingwersen is scanning his big squad for a successor to Maves McLain, his last year's full-back, and a punter. Harry Kipke of Michigan is attempting to impart some of his mastery of the art of punting to Jimmy Simrall, and has a tackle problem that is more serious than that of other line positions.

Sam Willaman has shifted Joe Ujhelyi from tackle to fullback in an attempt to strengthen his backfield, but is working several other candidates in the position. At Minnesota, Dr. Clarence W. Spears has reversed William's shift, sending his 1926 fullback star, Bronko Nagurski, from fullback to tackle. Jimmy Phelan has bright backfield prospects at Purdue, but is shy capable linemen and reserves.

Northwestern's problem also is one of filling line positions, while Chicago with its smallest squad in many seasons, lacks experienced men for several positions. Glen Thistlewaite is looking for a blocking halfback and reserves for the middle of his line at Wisconsin.

Bob Zupke is confronted with the necessity of finding ends and has tried many switches in an effort to locate them. Pat Page has not yet tried a tentative regular combination, confining the first three days of practice to work on fundamentals.

Flying Tackle Keeps Sonnenberg's Crown

Los Angeles, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The world's heavyweight wrestling crown still rested on the head of Gus "Dynamite" Sonnenberg today because he proved the master of Joe Stecher, former title holder, at the rough game of flying tackles.

Using Sonnenberg's favorite hold, Stecher, scissors' hold artist, won the first fall in a match here last night with a flying tackle in 27 minutes, 17 seconds. Sonnenberg, used the same hold to take the second fall in two minutes, 11 seconds. After circling for two minutes the champion plumed into Stecher's midriff with another flying tackle for the deciding fall.

Illinois has Nusspikel and Yanusuk to stack up against Yunevick of Purdue. Diedendorf of Chicago and Captain Joe Truskowski of Michigan.

DR. ECKENER

BY HUGH ALLEN

The First Authorized Story of the Life of the Commander of the Zeppelins.

CHAPTER I

Born at Flensburg, Schleswig-Holstein, in 1868, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of Zeppelins, was educated as a philosopher and scientist. As a boy he was a sailing enthusiast. He studied the winds and became a youthful authority on the weather in his native village. Graduated from Leipzig University with a degree of doctor of philosophy, he established his home at Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance. There he studied political economy. Bismarck had just fallen and William II was on the throne. Young Eckener was contributing articles to the Frankfurter Zeitung, and attended to write a book dealing with the economics of his time. But there was another resident on Lake Constance—Count Ferdinand Zeppelin—and Eckener's book was destined never to be finished.

CHAPTER II

We now approach the year 1906 with Dr. Hugo Eckener living quietly with his family at Friedrichshafen on Lake Constance, contributing articles on economics and other subjects to the Frankfurter Zeitung and other periodicals, sailing small boats upon the lake, and following the life of a student and scholar, while still planning to complete a book dealing with economic affairs of the day. Meanwhile, also on the shores of Lake Constance, Count Ferdinand Zeppelin was embarked upon a project requiring probably the greatest and most persistent exercise of courage and devotion in the whole field of invention and research.

As a volunteer officer in the Union Army during the American Civil War, Count Zeppelin had flown in free and captive balloons, first at Fort Snelling, Minn., then in Virginia during Grant's campaigns. He was never to forget the experience. For years afterward he had spent all the leisure hours that came to an army officer in working up plans and blue prints. He wanted to build a balloon that would carry motors and a rudder, something that would enable man to achieve his long ambition to ascend into the third dimension.

The creation of airships is different from all other inventions in that it cannot be started on a small scale.

The builder of the early automobile could work at it in a shed after hours. If he failed, he could find what was wrong, correct it and try again. He would not be out much except his time. He could keep on trying until he succeeded. Many of the inventions that have changed the economic and political map of the world have been started in sheds and attic lofts.

But Count Zeppelin had to have 100 acres of ground, a building as large as the town hall at Constance, and hundreds of thousands of dollars in money before he could build even a single ship.

He wanted a metal framework to his balloon so as to give adequate strength and speed. Steel was too heavy, aluminum too soft. Duralumin, which has the strength of steel with a third its weight, had not been discovered.

Using metal of any kind he had to build the ship very large before it could carry enough hydrogen gas to lift its own weight; he must build it larger still if it were to carry motors, fuel, crew; larger still if it should carry a load.

His ship had to be as large as an ocean steamship. And it must weigh no more than a small lake schooner. The calculations of strength, stress analysis in the past had largely been applied to bridges and to buildings. The science of aerodynamics hadn't even been born. The light weight gasoline motor was still in its infancy, lacked much in dependability.

If the Zeppelin airship today as a reality still looks difficult of belief, how much more so must it have appeared 30 years ago, on paper.

For any man to have convinced enough people that this miracle could happen, to have persuaded them to the point of actually staking their personal funds that it could be done, is in itself no small achievement.

Technically, Count Zeppelin was not an engineer, was not even an inventor in the ordinary sense of the term. His supreme contribution in the case of the airship was an indomitable faith and courage.

Count Zeppelin had designed his first airship on paper in 1873, embodying many of the principles used today. In 1887 he submitted a complete memorandum on the subject to the King of Wurtemberg. In 1894 he had employed an engineer to work out full structural designs, had submitted these to a committee of experts. The committee deliberated, studied, argued, finally reported that while his calculations seemed accurate, the thing wouldn't work.

He had retired from the army at 56, a full general, had dedicated the rest of his life to this dirigible project.

Six years later, in 1900, Zeppelin built and lost his first ship. It was 420 feet long, having 388,000 feet of hydrogen gas—about a tenth of the size of the Graf Zeppelin. Crude as the first ship was, it embodied many of the principle used today—a complete metal framework, longitudinal girder extending from nose to tail, reinforced by 16 circular girders between which hydrogen was carried separate gas cells, the whole ship surrounded by an outer cover of fabric.

From the pontoons of the floating barge the ship arose in the air, its two 16 horsepower motors driving it along at 13½ miles per hour. The ship made three successive flights and convinced the inventor that he was on the right track, and he started confidently to finance a bigger and stronger ship.

It took him five years to raise the money, assistance finally coming from the King of Wurtemberg and the manufacturer of aluminum. Important changes in strength, speed and control had been developed, but as the ship was taken out of the hangar for the first time, the steering gear was broken and the ship driven out of control across the lake, where an emergency landing was made and the ship with great difficulty returned to the workshops and repaired. On its second flight Zeppelin took the ship to a height of 1600 feet before motor trouble developed. He made a forced landing in the open, but before the motors could be repaired a storm came up, wrecked the ship on the ground.

This second failure convinced the world generally that Zeppelin airships were impractical. The inventor's explanation that if he could have kept his motors running he would have gotten successfully through the storm convinced only a few people. The one man whose faith was unshaken was Ferdinand Count Zeppelin himself.

On the other hand, among those convinced that Count Zeppelin's theories were unsound was a certain "Dr. E." His articles appeared from time to time in the Frankfurter Zeitung. They breathed a spirit of fairness and tolerance, but left little doubt that to the writer's mind the vagaries of the air would never be conquered by a rigid balloon. The writer was a sailor and philosopher, and some of his readers doubtless reasoned that he must be right, for what could a cavalry officer know about the winds and the sky, anyhow?

In the spring of 1906 Count Zeppelin threw the last of his personal resources into his third ship; and this one—the LZ-3—launched in the fall, maneuvered under perfect control, showed a speed of nearly 30 miles an hour—brought him the government help in the shape of a new and larger hangar. While planning for this fourth ship, Zeppelin continued to demonstrate with the LZ-3, staying aloft on one occasion for eight hours, making a record flight of more than 200 miles. The fourth ship was started early in 1908, a half million cubic feet ship with two 100 horsepower motors; and with it in July, 1908, Zeppelin made a daring flight over the Alps to Lucerne and back again, astounding the entire world.

The entire country became wildly enthusiastic. Zeppelin had triumphed. There was the keenest interest then in the duration flight set for August, 1908, which, if successful, would bring full government support and improved finances.

The ship flew down the Rhine toward Mainz but disaster again lay in wait on the return voyage. His old bugaboo of motor trouble developed. A forced landing had to be made at Echterdingen near Stuttgart where a storm set in tearing the ship from its moorings. The next moment the ship broke into flames and presently Zeppelin was gazing at a twisted skeleton and the collapse of his hopes.

Again the critics proclaimed the folly of airships. Count Zeppelin was 70 by now—long since ready for the carpet slippers and skull cap of old age; but instead, leaving the wreckage at Echterdingen, he was already revolving plans in his mind with all the confidence and enthusiasm of a boy.

And it was at this time that the common people of Germany—the baker, the postman, the shoemaker—with popular instinct, sounder than that of scientists and officials, turned to him. Subscriptions were opened up throughout Germany and within a few weeks 6,000,000 marks had been raised, approximately $1,500,000 and turned over to him as a free gift of the people to use as he saw fit. This gift brought him the assurance of release from financial worry and set up a corporation unique in the world of business.

This money he felt, was a trust fund and with it he created the Zeppelin Foundation, with a proviso written in the charter that all profits must be put back in the treasury to be used exclusively for the propagation and development of air navigation throughout the world.

And it was this unusual organization that Dr. Eckener, the skeptical scholar of Flensburg, was shortly to join and from which he was to emerge 15 years later as the dominant figure.

CAR AND BEAR TANGLE
Rhinelander, Wis.—Picture the surprise of Warde Wassott, Crandon attorney, who drove his car quietly around a bend in the road and ran into a huge black bear. The impact, almost wrecking the car, made the bear very angry and coughing up a couple of terrible growls he turned and fled. Wassott was just as glad that Mr. Bruin didn't linger to argue.

LUCKY BOY
Toledo—Earl Paris Scott, 23, still thanking his lucky stars. He was driving a truck when the steering wheel locked, guiding him over a 290-foot embankment. The car turned over twice in its fall, and lit right side up. Scott escaped with minor injuries.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with her handsome guardian, CHARLES OWENS NEILIN, owner Brent to change all his plans regarding Helen's future. Before the man dies, Brent confesses facts and evidence which he is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.

On a grand tour, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to tell her about her parents, and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to her grandfather when she was 18. Brent takes her to Yonkers and introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He tells the story and offers to prove the letter containing a picture of CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Neilin.

Cunningham and his lawyer request that Helen remain at Bramblewood until an investigation is made. Helen resents being under suspicion until the old man gains her favor by the gift of a beautiful necklace. The girl drives everywhere alone and one day accidentally strikes a young woman who has been taken to the hospital. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV
"WHAT'D YOU HIT?"
The traffic officer rapped out the question abruptly when he again reached Helen's car. "Any one hurt besides that girl?"

"No," Helen said faintly. "I ran up a bank and broke through a fence."

Helen fumbled in her bag and got out the slip of paper. The officer examined it and made a note of the number of the license plates on her car.

He asked a few more questions and Helen answered them as accurately as she could in her overwrought condition.

Suddenly, while he jotted down some answer she had given him, she burst out with an appeal to be allowed to go on to the hospital.

"We'll be takin' a trip to the station first," he replied curtly. "But I want to do something for that girl," Helen protested.

"Plenty of time for that," he told her and stepped on the running board. "Can you drive all right?" Helen nodded and started the motor.

"It's only a few blocks," the officer said, offering a trifle over her courageous effort to face the music without whimpering.

Helen went through the next half an hour in a daze. Questions, questions, questions. They worried her. Her mind was with the girl she had hurt. Where was she now?

BY JULIUS FRANDSEN

United Press Staff Correspondent
White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 18—(UP)—Earl Francis Peacock sat quietly today and listened to an outlining of the evidence New York state proposes to offer in an attempt to send him to the electric chair.

The dapper 22-year-old radio salesman, charged with killing his young wife Dorothy, and then burning her body, lost some of his calm as District Attorney Frank H. Coyne described the killing, but became more confident as the defense revealed insanity will be pleaded to save him.

Peacock has been almost sneering in his attitude heretofore. But when Coyne outlined the case, told how the state would prove that Peacock held a mirror at his wife's mouth to be certain she was dead and told of the cremation, the young radio salesman seemed to wince.

Made Doubly Sure.
Coyne told of Peacock's confession that he had wrapped a cord around his wife's throat as he started to take the body from the house "because I was afraid the rain might revive her."

Sydney A. Syme, chief of defense counsel, assailed the district attorney's "implication" that Peacock killed his wife to get rid of her so he could go back to Frances Neuman. "Such a supposition," he said, cannot be considered anything but foolish when all he had to do to get rid of her was to let her get the divorce she wanted.

"If that is the motive the prosecution seeks to establish our witnesses will knock it to pieces."

Syme said he will produce evidence to show "this boy was legally insane when he killed this girl." He said further the evidence would show that things which Peacock had learned about his wife made him insane at the time of the crime.

SHIP OLD COURTHOUSE
Lincoln, Ill., Sept. 18—(AP)—Completely loaded in two box cars, the dismantled Postville courthouse, made historic by Abraham Lincoln, will start on its trip to Henry Ford's American village of "Dearborn" early tomorrow. Loading was started this morning.

With the superstructure, the wreckers also will take the original foundation of the courthouse, located some distance to the rear of the last location of the building.

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Where formerly no time limit was on the performance of the ceremony after the granting of the license, the couple must now wait three days before the certificate is granted. This gives them time to think it over, officials say.

STAY OUT CRIMINALS
Chicago.—Chicago will be amply protected by the brains of the police forces of leading cities of the United States this autumn. August Vollmer, who has been appointed Professor of Police Administration at the University of Chicago, will address the police chiefs' meeting to be held here then.

George Washington never lived in the White House. This edifice was not yet completed when he died.
